NEW EU PROJECT

October 2015–September 2017

What is ‘Innovative Quality Mentoring for Social Inclusion’ ?...

offers lifelong learning benefits to less educated and low skills categories of people by using innovative and quality mentoring techniques to improve their level of social inclusion and employability.

The project proposed intervention is following a previous collaboration between current partners during 2013-2015 within Community Mentoring for Social Inclusion where Kaleidoscope was the lead coordinator.

Final Transnational Project/ Suceava, Romania Meeting was held in 10–15 May 2015

The new lead coordinator for this project is Kilcooley Womens Centre (Bangor, Northern Ireland). This new project will focus on developing, sharing and transferring innovative mentoring practices which include, transnational meetings/trainings in order to developing Mentor’s competences to deal with diversified groups of learners, making use of new technologies and teaching outcomes. Also the project will contribute to improving and extending the offer of high quality learning opportunities tailored to individual Mentors including through innovative ways of outreach and delivery.

The project aims at increasing institutional capacity of the project partners, empowering them to provide new and innovative services for social inclusion in Europe. The training of trainers will generate a legacy to the project, and will ensure the cascading of learning continues after completion. The pool of trainers in each member country will be an asset to the organization and their local community. In this context the objectives proposed for developing a new partnership program are:

1. Development of a common professional profile of Community Mentors for Social Inclusion at European level, based on the initial assessment and lessons learned and best practices applied in partners countries.

2. Develop training curricula adapted to the common professional profile of Community Mentor for Social Inclusion (based on the initial assessment).

3. Increased institutional capacity of 6 organizations in 4 countries by providing modern and innovative training to their key staff involved in community mentoring for social inclusion.

4. Develop competences and skills of 132 professional in adult education to become community mentors for social inclusion using short-term staff training and learners blending mobilities.

5. Develop innovative tools to transfer information and knowledge, promote and support community mentoring activities.

The intellectual outputs created during the project, generate training tools and materials, transferable in any European country and will continue to be used by the project partners and also other organiza-
